About the committee

MARVEL VS DC is amongst the most sought after committees of the UN, simply because it adverts constant dialogue between the loved characters of both universes, though engaged in what is known as a classified discussion based on continuous crisis in the committee. The hysteria and practical rivalry over who supports which character is what makes this committee one to watch in the three day session of CHMUN. While the marvel universe encompasses superhuman powers and the camaraderie between extraordinary individuals, the dc world revolves around the darker side of superhuman powers, and the human mind capable of winning against these heroes with its brilliance.

A brief about the agenda

Republican versus Democrat, Yankees versus Red Sox, Betty versus Veronica, Marvel versus DC. There are some debates in our country that seem like they will go on forever. The battle of Marvel versus DC is one that has raged since both companies were at their peaks of glory. For decades, fans have established their personal stance and aligned themselves with one publisher and one set of characters to define who they are and what they love. In the last 15 years, the battle between these two brands has evolved into movie theaters across the country. Comic book fans aren't the only ones who debate the merits of Marvel versus DC as a whole new generation is introduced to these characters through movies and television.

Code of Conduct

The Fictional Committee is a committee of exclusive nature and has characteristics of its own. Therefore, to ensure proper functioning and uniformity in the conference and the committee, there are certain policies and regulations dedicated to only Fictional delegates:

- Delegates are expected to be respectful and polite to every delegate, staff member, and conference executive. When in committee, delegates should not cause any sort of disruption.
- Delegates are allowed to carry cell phones and other electronic devices with them. However, delegates are requested to avoid using cell phones outside committee rooms. Delegates are forbidden from calling and texting inside committee rooms.
- Always address in third person.
- It is suggested that one should go through the background guide of the committee, and read materials that revolve around the agendas which will be discussed.
